Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Cut the whole chicken into pieces: legs, wings, then the breast and back. 0:59
2. Add the soy sauce, a little salt, the ground ginger and turmeric, then the thinly sliced onion. Mix well so every piece is coated and leave to marinate for 10 minutes. 1:35
3. Heat the oil in a heavy pot and brown the chicken on all sides, tipping in the onion and everything from the marinade. 2:40
4. Add the cinnamon stick, cover and let the chicken cook in its own juices for about 10 minutes without adding water, stirring now and then, until it is golden and fragrant. 3:13
5. Add the chopped tomatoes and cook, covered and still without water, for about 10 minutes until they form a thick sauce. 4:10
6. Pour in the coconut milk and simmer gently over low heat for 10 minutes. Lay a few chives on top to serve. 4:56

> Tip Serves 4 (our estimate). Served in Madagascar with rice, rougail (fresh tomato relish) and chilli paste; cauliflower rice or steamed greens keep it lower in carbs.

The method is a summary in our words, in English — the video (in French) shows every step.
