Frozen bananas and berries give the creaminess and most of the sweetness, with only 1 tbsp maple syrup for four scoops: about 110 kcal, 3.5 g fibre and 3 g added sugar a scoop, and no dairy.

Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Use very ripe, well-spotted bananas. Slice them before freezing so they blend easily, and freeze for a few hours until solid. 1:06
2. Put the frozen banana slices in a high-speed blender or food processor with the almond milk, vanilla, frozen berries and maple syrup. 3:28
3. Blend on low, stopping to stir now and then, until thick, smooth and creamy. 3:47
4. Scoop into a container. Eat straight away as soft serve, or freeze for a few hours for a firmer scoop (let it soften for about 20 minutes first). 3:57

> Tip Bagged frozen banana slices work too. For no added sugar, swap the maple syrup for a little stevia, as the cook suggests. Stores for a few weeks in the freezer in a jar.
