Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put the cream and erythritol in a saucepan and stir over medium heat until the erythritol has completely dissolved. 1:17
2. Add the chopped cocoa mass and keep stirring with a spatula until it melts into a thick ganache. Turn off the heat, add the butter and stir until melted, then take the pan off the stove. 1:23
3. Stir in the vanilla. When the mixture has cooled to warm, blend it with a stick blender until it is smooth, glossy and no longer separated. 1:57
4. Spoon the ganache into a piping bag with a round nozzle (or use a teaspoon) and pipe about 35 truffles of ¾ oz onto a silicone mat or baking paper. 3:24
5. Refrigerate at least 2 hours until firm, then lift off and dust with carob powder (or cocoa powder). 3:43

> Tip Using dark chocolate instead of cocoa mass? The cook says to use 1¼ lb of 85–90% chocolate (or 1¼ lb of 70–80%), which adds sugar and makes them less keto. Chilled ganache can be softened in the microwave and re-blended before piping.
