Daegu Jiri-tang (Korean Clear Cod Soup)

생대구지리탕

40 min · Serves 5 · 174 kcal a serve · Video 5:43 in Korean · 김대석 셰프TV

Pescatarian · Dairy-free · Nut-free

A light, clear fish soup with about 27 g protein, 4 g fat and 6 g net carbs a bowl from fresh cod, tofu, radish and soybean sprouts; rich in selenium and vitamin B12. It is salty (about 1,000 mg sodium a bowl).

Diet notes: Low carb (6.1 g net carbs) but not keto: 20% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more; Gluten-free with a swap: Use tamari instead of soup soy sauce and check the ginger wine is wheat-free.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Put 2 litres of water on to heat. Slice the radish thinly and add it straight to the pot. 0:27
2. Microwave a handful each of dried anchovies and dried shrimp for 30 seconds and add them with the kombu and the coarsely cut green chillies to make the broth. 0:48
3. Meanwhile slice the daepa and red chilli, cut the minari into lengths and halve and slice the tofu. Lift the kombu out after a few minutes of boiling. 1:14
4. Sprinkle the cod with ginger wine, blanch it in hot water for about 30 seconds so the flesh firms and loses its fishy smell, then drain. 2:02
5. After about 10 minutes lift out the anchovies and shrimp. Add the minced garlic and stir for about 20 seconds just to release its aroma. 2:32
6. Turn up the heat, add the soybean sprouts and the cod, then the mirin, shrimp brine and soup soy sauce. Skim off any foam. 3:04
7. Add the tofu, minari, daepa and red chilli, cover and boil 3 minutes. Taste, season with about ½ rice-spoon salt, and remove the green chillies before serving. 4:02

> Tip Serves 5 (our estimate: about 600 g a bowl with 90 g cod). A clear, mild soup often eaten as a hangover cure, with rice on the side. Ask the fishmonger to clean and cut the cod; the head and bones flavour the broth.
