Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Microwave the chocolate for 15 seconds, add the butter and microwave 30 seconds more, then stir into a smooth, glossy mixture. Set aside to cool a little. 0:59
2. Put the cold cream, cocoa powder and stevia in a chilled bowl and whip with a hand mixer until thick and fluffy. Taste and add more stevia if needed. 1:23
3. Pour in the melted chocolate and whip again until it is all combined and holds soft peaks (add a pinch of salt here if you used unsalted butter). 1:51
4. Spoon into 4 small bowls or glasses and refrigerate for at least 1 hour, ideally a few hours, before serving cold. 2:14

> Tip For a mocha mousse, add a little espresso powder with the cocoa. Erythritol works instead of stevia: start with 1–2 spoonfuls and adjust to taste.
