Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Cube the pork, keeping the fat on, rub it with 1 tsp salt and set aside. 0:52
2. Blend the garlic, ginger, cumin, cinnamon, peppercorns, cloves, turmeric, 1 tsp salt and about 120 ml vinegar with the broken Kashmiri chillies to a smooth paste, adding more vinegar if needed. Rinse the blender with 60 ml water and keep that liquid. 2:43
3. Coat the pork in the paste, cover and marinate for at least 2 hours, or overnight in the fridge (bring it back to room temperature before cooking). 3:54
4. Soak the tamarind in 120 ml warm water for 15 minutes and squeeze out the pulp. Mix the sliced onions through the marinated pork. 4:41
5. Put the pork and onions in a heavy pan with no oil, fattier pieces at the bottom. Cover and cook on medium for 10 minutes, stirring every 5 minutes, then add the blender water and tamarind pulp and cook 5 minutes more. 5:45
6. Add 350 ml water, cover and simmer on medium-low for 15 minutes, then add 120 ml more water and cook another 10–15 minutes, stirring now and then. 7:28
7. Stir in the sugar, taste for salt, sourness and heat, and cook until the pork is tender and oil floats on top, about 10 minutes more. It tastes even better after a day or two in the fridge. 8:25

> Tip Serves 6 (our estimate from 1 kg of pork). Use 1 tsp sugar for less sweetness. Keeps 3–4 days in the fridge and freezes well; serve with rice or bread.
