A vegan vegetable spread with about 5 g net carbs in a ¼-cup serve — mostly zucchini, carrot and onion cooked down with tomato, with under 1 g of added sugar a serve.

Diet notes: Low carb (5.4 g net carbs) but not keto: 59% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more.

Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Peel the zucchini and trim the ends; if they are large and seedy, scoop out the middle. Cut into small cubes — you want 1 kg prepared weight. 0:36
2. Peel the carrots and grate them coarsely (or chop finely), and chop the onions into small dice. 1:13
3. Heat the 70 g oil in a frying pan and fry the onion until lightly golden. 1:35
4. Add the carrot and fry 2–3 minutes, then stir in the tomato paste and fry a couple of minutes more. 1:54
5. Scrape the fried vegetables into a heavy-based pot and put the zucchini on top. Add the salt, sugar, pepper and, if you like, a little dried garlic and ground coriander. 2:23
6. Cover and stew on the lowest heat until the zucchini is completely soft, lifting the lid now and then to stir so nothing catches. 2:56
7. Take the pot off the heat and blend everything with a stick blender until smooth. 3:26
8. Return to medium heat and bring to the boil, stirring constantly (it splutters). Stir in the vinegar, turn off the heat and let it cool. Keep in a covered jar in the fridge. 3:41

> Tip Makes about 1 litre. Spread it on rye bread, or serve with eggs or grilled meat. Keeps about a week in the fridge; the cook seals it in sterilised jars for winter, which we don't cover here.
