Almond flour, pecans and coconut replace the oats and flour, and an erythritol brown sugar replacement and sugar-free chips replace the sugar: about 3 g net carbs a big cookie.

Diet notes: Keto (2.7 g net carbs a serve); Vegetarian with a swap for the grass-fed gelatin.

Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Beat the well-softened butter with the brown sugar replacement until fluffy, about 2 minutes. 0:45
2. Beat in the room-temperature egg and vanilla, scraping the bowl so all the butter is mixed in. 1:19
3. Add the almond flour, gelatin, baking powder, baking soda and salt and mix into a dough. 1:44
4. Stir in the flaked coconut, chopped pecans and most of the chocolate chips. 2:14
5. Divide the dough into 12 and roll into big balls. Space them well apart on a large lined baking sheet, press each to about ¾ inch (3/4 in) thick and press the remaining chips on top. 2:54
6. Bake at 325°F for 15–20 minutes, until the edges are golden brown. Cool for about 30 minutes before eating. 3:37

> Tip Use an erythritol-only brown sweetener: the cook says allulose or xylitol stop them crisping. The gelatin adds chew but can be left out. A full batch makes 24.
