A raw, chunky salsa of tomato, corn, capsicum, onion and coriander — about 17 kcal a ¼-cup serve, with some vitamin C and no oil or sugar. A day of fermenting adds tang; the salt makes it about 360 mg sodium a serve.

Diet notes: Low carb (3 g net carbs) but not keto: 11% of the energy is from fat, and keto meals get about 60% or more.

Ingredients

7 · MAKES 13 × ¼ CUP (60 G)

- [ ] 540 g diced ripe tomatoes, with their juice
- [ ] 15 g chopped fresh coriander (cilantro) leaves
- [ ] 50 g diced green capsicum (bell pepper), or 1 jalapeño for heat
- [ ] 1 fresh corn cob, kernels cut off
- [ ] 55 g chopped onion
- [ ] Lime juice: juice of 1 lime
- [ ] 1 tbsp coarse sea salt (12 g), or ½ tbsp fine salt (8 g)

Contains: none of the common allergens in the listed ingredients. Check labels on stock, sauces and spice mixes.

Method

TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Dice the tomatoes, cutting out the cores and any blemished skin, and put 710 ml in a bowl with all the juice from the board. 2:12
2. Add the chopped coriander leaves, diced capsicum (or jalapeño), corn kernels, onion and the juice of the lime, and toss well. 3:29
3. Pack the salsa into a clean quart (1 litre) jar a little at a time, pressing gently with your hand or a tamper so the air comes out and the juice rises over the vegetables. Pour in the juice left in the bowl. 6:05
4. Sprinkle the salt on top (12 g coarse or 8 g fine) and push it under the liquid. Set a fermenting weight on top so everything stays under the juice, then cover with a coffee filter held on with a jar ring. 6:44
5. Leave on the counter for 24 hours, then remove the weight, close the lid and refrigerate. Eat within 3–5 days. 8:07

> Tip Makes about 790 g, roughly 13 quarter-cup serves (our estimate). Frozen corn works if fresh isn't in season. The cook found 24 hours gives the best flavour and texture — longer softens the tomatoes.
