Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Rinse the rice until the water runs nearly clear. Drain and rinse both cans of chickpeas, keeping one can for the pot and putting the other in a blender or food processor. 0:17
2. Heat the olive oil in a Dutch oven over medium-high heat. Cook the carrots and onion with a few pinches of salt, stirring now and then, for about 10 minutes until soft and lightly golden. 1:29
3. Add the garlic for 2 minutes, then stir in the tomato paste, oregano, coriander, turmeric and chilli flakes for 1–2 minutes until the paste turns brick red (add a splash of broth if it sticks). 2:57
4. Stir in the rice for a minute, then add one can of chickpeas, ¼ tsp salt, pepper, the broth and half the dill. Bring to the boil, cover and simmer on low for 15 minutes until the rice is soft. 3:22
5. Meanwhile blend the second can of chickpeas with the plant milk, lemon zest, 2 tbsp lemon juice, nutritional yeast, miso, 1 tsp salt and pepper until smooth and creamy. 4:22
6. Stir the purée and spinach into the soup and simmer 1–2 minutes until it thickens and the greens wilt. 6:08
7. Off the heat, stir in the rest of the dill and lemon juice, adjust salt and pepper, and serve with a drizzle of olive oil. 6:26

> Tip Basil or parsley can replace the dill. Keeps 5–6 days in the fridge or 3–4 months frozen; reheat gently, stirring. The cook serves it with crusty bread (roast potatoes keep it gluten-free).
