Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Soak the chickpeas overnight. Drain, cover with fresh water, add 1 tsp salt and ½ tsp turmeric and boil, covered, until soft. Drain and set aside. 0:11
2. Blanch the chopped spinach in a pot of boiling water for 3–4 minutes, then drain. 0:38
3. Heat the oil in a wok and fry the sliced onion and dried red chillies until golden. Add the tomatoes and ginger-garlic paste and cook until the tomatoes soften, adding 3–4 tbsp water. 0:57
4. Stir in the salt, turmeric, coriander powder, chilli powder and garam masala, add 60 ml water and cook for 2 minutes. 1:31
5. Add the blanched spinach and mash it into the masala with a potato masher. Add the chickpeas and 120 ml water and cook for 3–4 minutes. 1:55
6. Add the fenugreek leaves and ginger julienne, cover and cook on low heat for 8–10 minutes. Serve topped with more ginger, and a little butter and a sliced boiled egg if you like. 2:19

> Tip Time excludes the overnight soak. Three 400 g tins of chickpeas, drained, replace the dried ones and cut the time to about 35 minutes. Leave out the butter and egg to keep it vegan; 4 tbsp oil makes it lighter.
