Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Rub the cleaned mackerel with the lime juice and leave for 15 minutes to freshen the smell. 1:00
2. Pound the turmeric, ginger, candlenuts, shallots, garlic and red chillies with the coarse salt to a fine paste (or blend), then pound in the chopped tomatoes. 1:29
3. Fry the paste in a little hot oil over medium heat, add the seasoning powder and sugar, and cook until the liquid has cooked off and it smells cooked. Set aside. 3:00
4. On two layered pieces of banana leaf put 2 bay leaves, some lemongrass, chillies, lemon basil and a spoon of paste; lay a fish on top, cover with more paste, chillies and basil, fold into a parcel and pin with toothpicks. Repeat. 3:50
5. Steam the parcels over boiling water for 20 minutes. 5:20
6. Toast the steamed parcels on a hot grill pan, turning once, until the leaves char and smell fragrant. Serve in the leaf. 5:57

> Tip Serves 3 (our estimate: 2 fish each). You need about 6 banana leaves; foil works. Indonesians eat it with rice; steamed greens keep it lower in carbs. Indian mackerel has small bones, so eat with care.
