Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Melt the butter with the olive oil in a pan that heats and cools quickly (copper or enamel rather than cast iron). Add the onion with a pinch of salt, stir, cover and cook over medium heat 3–4 minutes so it softens without browning. 1:25
2. Stir in the garlic and cook, covered, 1–1½ minutes more. Add the green peppers with a pinch of salt, cover and let them soften on low heat for a few minutes. 3:10
3. Add the diced tomatoes and another pinch of salt. Raise the heat briefly so the edges sizzle, then cover and simmer 4–5 minutes until soft. 5:36
4. Season with cumin, thyme and red pepper flakes if using, then gently crush the mixture with a potato masher or fork so it is saucy but still textured. 7:35
5. Turn off the heat, make four wells and crack in the eggs. Salt the whites and swirl them lightly into the sauce with two forks, leaving the yolks whole. 8:52
6. Cover and cook on high for 1½–2 minutes until the whites are set and the yolks still creamy. Finish with black pepper and coriander and serve from the pan with bread for dipping. 9:29

> Tip Serves 2 is our estimate (4 eggs). Peel the tomatoes by scoring them and dipping in boiling water for 30 seconds. Grate a little white cheese (feta) on top if you like, and serve with wholegrain bread.
