Barramundi is a lean Australian fish: each serve gives about 26 g protein, and the charred corn and capsicum salad adds fibre and about 80 mg vitamin C, dressed with olive oil and citrus rather than a creamy dressing.

Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Heat a barbecue grill or chargrill pan to medium-high. Toss the corn, capsicum, onion and spring onion whites with 1 tbsp oil and season. Char the corn for about 10 minutes, turning, then grill the other vegetables until lightly charred. 0:16
2. Whisk the lemon rind and juice, the lime rind, 1 tbsp lime juice and 2 tbsp oil, and season. 3:07
3. Slice the kernels off the cobs with a serrated knife. Roughly chop the capsicum and onion and toss with the corn, the dressing, the spring onion greens, rocket, parsley and mint. 4:01
4. Pat the fish dry, score the skin and salt it. Lay it skin-side down in a cold non-stick pan with 2 tsp oil, then raise the heat gradually to high, pressing it down, until the skin is crisp. Turn and cook about 2 minutes. Cook in batches. 1:54
5. Serve the fish skin-side up on the corn salad, keeping the dressing off the crisp skin. 5:12

> Tip Serves 6 (as Curtis Stone says). Snapper or any firm white fish works. Frozen corn kernels can be charred in a hot dry pan if fresh cobs are out of season.

The method is a summary in our words — the video shows every step.
