Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Grind the toasted sesame seeds in a mortar and pestle (suribachi), leaving some seeds whole for texture. 0:07
2. Add the sugar, soy sauce, mirin and sake to the ground sesame and mix into a thick dressing. 0:21
3. Bring a large pot of lightly salted water to the boil. Add the spinach stem-side first and cook for 30–45 seconds. 0:43
4. Lift the spinach into iced water to stop the cooking, then gather it up and squeeze out the water firmly. Cut into 2.5–5 cm lengths. 1:04
5. Put the spinach in a bowl, add the sesame dressing and toss together. Serve at room temperature or chilled. 1:27

> Tip Try the same dressing on blanched green beans, broccoli or asparagus. Dress the spinach just before serving; it keeps a day in the fridge.
