Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Mince the shallot and set it aside. Crack the peppercorns roughly in a bag with a mallet or the base of a pan, so they are coarse rather than ground. Heat the oven to 160 °C. 0:37
2. Pat the steaks dry. Salt one side and press it firmly into the cracked pepper to make a crust; flip carefully and salt the other side only. 1:21
3. Heat the oil in a skillet over medium-high heat and sear the unpeppered side first until well browned. Flip, add the butter and baste the steaks, searing the edges gently so the crust stays on. 2:08
4. Move the steaks to a rack on a sheet pan and finish in the oven for about 15 minutes for medium-rare (54 °C inside). 3:16
5. Meanwhile, sauté the shallot in the same pan with a pinch of the salt for a minute, then add the green peppercorns. Take the pan off the heat, add the cognac, return to the heat and flambé (or simmer) until the alcohol has cooked off. 3:32
6. Add the beef stock and bring to a simmer, then the cream. Boil, then simmer briskly for about 10 minutes, stirring now and then, until reduced by half and the sauce coats a spoon. 4:13
7. Spoon the sauce onto plates and set the steaks on top so the pepper crust stays crisp. 5:36

> Tip The cook serves it with fries; keep it keto with a green salad, buttered green beans or cauliflower mash instead. No green peppercorns? A couple of pinches of ground black pepper will do.
