Method TIMES = THE MOMENT IN THE VIDEO

1. Heat the coconut oil in a wok and fry the yellow curry paste for about a minute until fragrant. 1:16
2. Add about 3½ tbsp of the coconut milk to make a curry base, then stir in the grated zucchini and cook for a minute so it melts into the sauce and thickens it. 1:41
3. Add the bok choy and stir-fry briefly, then pour in the rest of the coconut milk and simmer 3–5 minutes. 2:14
4. Add the fish pieces and simmer gently about 5 minutes, just until cooked through; don't overcook. Taste and add salt if needed. 2:41
5. Garnish with coriander and serve. 3:09

> Tip Serve with cauliflower rice to keep it keto, or jasmine rice. Any firm fish works; the cook used a local white fish. Curry pastes vary in carbs, so check the label.
